SCCUTING AND THE OUTDOORS

At the farewell luncheon given by the Far Western Travelers' association on the day of the departure of the five Greater New York Boy Scouts of America who are the guests on a trip to the national parks, James E. West, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, in an address said in part:

"This trip which these five scouts are to make is of great importance because it has back of it a great idea. Scouting has as a part of its program the out-of-doors activities. This movement is that of the Boy Scouts of America. This is a most practical method, it seems monition that we overcome evil with good; that we crowd out the evil by filling in with good. The juvenile court has to deal with actual delinquencles and often must employ discipline. The Boy Scout movement however, successfully lays hold of the very traits in boys that lead them into mischief, and proves that these same traits can function in a better "Both the juvenile courts and the Boy Scout leaders have grappled with the same problem. The Boy Scout movement is suitable to every boy from every kind of home. That means, of course, that it is a most valuable agency for those who are concerned with problems of reformatory work with boys."

ROBT. J. THORNE ON SCOUTING.

Robert J. Thorne, president of the Chicago scout council, is one of the country's most distinguished business men. He is president of a large firm and director of several other corporations and banks.

Recently, in a talk made by Mr. Thorne to a group of men interested in boy scout organization, he said: "The thing that appeals to me most in the boy scout movement is the boy scout habit to 'do a good turn daily.' As I become more and more actively interested in this movement and practice its precepts with the boys, I realize I have been missing a great deal for myself. "The realization that I am doing something for someone else makes me the happiest man in Chicago. Any man who has intimate contact with the boy scouts finds that it warms and enlarges his heart. My only regret is that I was not a boy forty years later, so that I could have been a boy scout."

HOW SCOUTS USE SPARE TIME.

Eunice, La., Troop 1 saved two important buildings from destruction by fire, for which they were made an auxiliary of the fire department by the mayor; also contributed to Monument fund, "America's Gift to France."

Troop No. 13, boy scouts of Ogden, Utah, is active in all community work. It has been called on twice to search for persons lost, three times for city police work and has done patrol duty in relief of poor families, gathering food and clothing, Berkeley, Cal., scouts in a recent Safety First campaign were stationed throughout the city and took the numbers of automobiles that violated traffic rules. Over 6,000 were reported the first day.

SCOUTS IN PURE WATER FIGHT.

Boy scout and many other residents of Montclair, N. J., have constituted themselves "camera men" to get firsthand information to prove if the water supply is impure. The boy scouts and citizens will photograph polluted spots and send the pictures to the mayor.

PRIVILEGE AND DUTY.

There are hundreds of cases of drowning every year, and the boy scout ought to know how to rescue those who are in peril of their lives by water, how to produce artificial respiration and how to act in every case of accident and emergency. To know what to do and to "Be Prepared" to do it is one of the privileges and duties and the glories of the boy scout.

Special Care of Baby.

Children Cry For

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases. Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food. A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived. Make a mental note of this:- It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care.
